DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. Claims 74-108 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 30-64 of copending Application No. 10/839,521. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 65-67,69-100 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Carl et al 5,381,685. Carl et al teach a portable electronic device and locking system, and inherently teaches the method for using said system, the system comprising a slot in the conventional portable electronic device for receiving a slot engaging member 52 having a T-shaped cross bar locking member 54 at the end thereof, a pin inhibiting member 60 cooperating with the rotatable locking member, and a housing member 36 comprising a spring 62 and at partially enclosing the slot engaging member, locking member and pin member. The housing member further comprising cable apertures 16 to receive a cable 18 therethrough to attach the device to a localized object. It is noted that the method limitations of claims 18-29 are inherent to the use of the locking system disclosed by Carl et al.

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

4. Claims 101-108 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Murray 5,493,878. Murray et al teach the embodiment in Fig. 20-26 having a slot engaging member with two engagement portions comprising sloping sidewalls.

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 56,59,61-67,69-108 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

In view of the new double patenting rejection against new co-pending application 10/839,521 and the new prior art rejection, Applicant's arguments are moot. It is noted that the Terminal Disclaimers filed 6/7/04 have been approved and obviate the previous double patenting rejections.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 56,59,61-64 are allowed.
